Research areas:

I am currently working on shaly-gas bearing sands in North Malay Basin, Gulf of Thailand. My interest is to integrate rocks, logs, core data and well tests in order to understand reservoir properties and help elucidate the interpreting of depositional setting and sand models. Beside I am willing to learn about carbonate and deepwater sequence stratigraphy that will help to understand how reservoir rocks are developed from these kinds of depositional environments and how to apply the appropriate parameters for petrophysical evaluation.
